Douglas Proctor, AIA

Doug's innovative solutions to complex projects bring a unique design approach to the firm's work. Doug has many years of professional experience and is involved in all phases of project development. Doug has extensive educational experience having designed or renovated more than a dozen school projects. Prior to joining Warrenstreet Architects, Doug was an Associate with Anderson, Brown, Higley Associates of Wilmington, Delaware where the focus of his work was in developing and managing educational, religious and institutional projects. He has received many awards, the most recent of which was a 2003 AIA Delaware Award for the design of Grace United Methodist Church.

Doug brings a sharp eye in all phases of project development, ranging from master planning and conceptual design to construction documentation and administration, and has extensive project management experience. He has experience developing and managing educational, religious, professional, assisted living, child care and institutional projects.

Doug graduated Cum Laude from Drexel University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is NCARB certified and registered in the State of Delaware.
